Pelican Empowerment

“Pelican people can rise to the top no matter what life throws at them; no matter how weighted down with life’s trials and tribulations. Emotional turmoil is often the weight in a Pelican person’s life. The pelican teaches you how not to be overcome by your troubles, but rather to rise above them.”

Eileen “El” Brooks (LW system founder)

Pelicans share nesting sites and food with other and this teaches unselfishness. Teamwork is also a key for a person with a pelican totem.

Brown Pelican

The term pelican has been associated with the phoenix and the Henet, a pelican goddess from the pyramid era Egypt; which appears on the walls of ancient tombs and royal funerary texts.

Pelican reflections..... Some of these may reveal some of your personal activities. Are you trying to store what should not be stored? .... Are you using or digesting what you have?

Description

A pelican is a large water bird with a distinctive pouch under the beak, belonging to the bird family Pelecanidae. Males are bigger than females. Pelicans have large wings and their skeleton is extremely light weight, weighting less than 10% of their total body weight.

Modern pelicans are found on all continents except Antarctica.. They occur mostly in warm regions. They are birds of inland and coastal waters, and they are not found in the polar regions, the deep ocean, oceanic islands, and inland South America.

Groupings

The pelicans can be divided into two groups plus a small one:

1. those with mostly white adult plumage, which nest on the ground Australian, Dalmatian, Great White, and American White Pelicans,
2. those with gray or brown plumage, which nest in trees Pink-backed, Spot-billed, and Brown, the Peruvian Pelican, which nests on sea rocks .

Feeding

The diet of a Pelican usually consists of fish, but they also eat amphibians, crustaceans and on some occasions, smaller birds. They often catch fish by expanding the throat pouch. Then they must drain the pouch above the surface before they can swallow. This operation takes up to a minute.

The white pelicans often fish in groups. They will form a line to chase schools of small fish into shallow water, and then scoop them up. Large fish are caught with the bill-tip, then tossed up in the air to be caught and slid into the gullet head first. The Brown Pelican of North America usually plunge-dives for its prey.

Reproduction

Pelicans are gregarious and nest colonially. The white pelicans or the ground-nesting species have a complex communal courtship involving a group of males chasing a single female in the air, on land, or in the water while pointing, gaping, and thrusting their bills at each other. They are usually done within a day.. The tree-nesting species have a simpler process in which perched males promote themselves for the females.

In all species copulation begins shortly after pairing and continues for 3 to 10 days before egg-laying. The male brings the nesting material. The female then heaps the material up to form a simple structure.

Both sexes incubate with the eggs on top of or below the feet. . All species lay at least two eggs. The hatching success for undisturbed pairs can be as high as 95 percent but there is competition between siblings or siblicide, which usually all but one nestling dies within the first few weeks .The young are fed copiously. Sometimes before but especially after being fed, they may seem to have a seizure that ends in falling unconscious. No one knows why this happens. Parents of ground-nesting species have another strange behavior: they sometimes drag older young around roughly by the head before feeding them. The young of these species gather in "pods" or "crèches" of up to 100 birds in which parents recognize and feed only their own offspring. By 6 to 8 weeks they wander around, occasionally swimming, and may practice communal feeding.

Young of all species fledge 10 to 12 weeks after hatching. They may remain with their parents afterwards, but are now seldom or never fed.

Pairs are monogamous for a single season, but the pair bond extends only to the nesting area; mates are independent away from the nest.

Populations

The rarest species are the Dalmatian Pelican and the Spot-billed pelican, and are in a range of 13,000 to 18,000. The most common is believed to be the Australian Pelican although some estimates have placed the White Pelican to be the highest.

Species

1. Brown Pelican
2. Peruvian Pelican
3. American White
4. Great white pelican
5. Dalmatian pelican
6. Pink-backed pelican
7. Spot billed pelican
8. Australian pelican

Symbolism

In medieval Europe, the pelican was thought to be particularly attentive to her young, to the point of providing her own blood when no other food was available. As a result, the pelican became a symbol of the Passion of Jesus and of the Eucharist. It also became a symbol in bestiaries for self-sacrifice, and was used in heraldry ("a pelican in her piety" or "a pelican wounding herself"). Another version of this is that the pelican used to kill its young and then resurrect them with its blood, this being analogous to the sacrifice of Jesus.

Attunement Procedure

There are no prerequisites for this attunement. This is based on intent and may be sent as intent or chi ball.

Always ask your higher source to be with you and always thank them for being there with you. Whatever procedure that you do for yourself to align with receiving attunements; please do them.

This empowerment is from many gifts of the universe and the celestial beings. It is free of charge, and it shall always be passed on as a gift to others! You are free to copy and pass on. You are also free to translate it, but if you translate, then please pass a copy to: enseikoshiro@yahoo.com.
